BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

THE BEST TONIC.
This medicine combines iron with pure vegetable tonics, and is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who lead sedentary lives. It Enriches and Purifies the Blood, Stimulates the Appetite, strengthens the Muscles and Nerves—in fact, thoroughly invigorates.
Clears the complexion, and makes the skin smooth.
It does not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do.
Mrs. ELIZABETH BAIRD, 74 Farwell Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., says, under date of Dec. 20th, 1884:
"I have used Brown's Iron Bitters, and it has been more than a doctor to me, having cured me of the weakness ladies have in life. Also cured me of Liver Complaint, and now my complexion is clear and good. Has also been beneficial to my children." Mrs. LOUISA C. BRADON, East Lockport, N. Y., says: "I have suffered untold misery from Female Complaints, and could obtain relief from nothing except Brown's Iron Bitters."

CLEVELAND IN ST. LOUIS.

HE IS RECEIVED AND ENTERTAINED
BY MAYOR FRANCIS.

How the President and His Wife Spent the Sabbath—Attending Church and Shaw's Garden—The Visit to the Fair Grounds and Merchant's Exchange.

St. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—It was nearly midnight Saturday when the presidential train reached here, but notwithstanding the late hour a large crowd greeted the chief magistrate. The president immediately alighted with Mrs. Cleveland, and after a hearty greeting by Mayor Francis and a committee who were waiting to receive him, he and his wife entered a carriage and were at once driven to the residence of Mayor Francis.

At Vandeventer Place, before the mansion of Mayor Francis, a crowd collected early Sunday morning to catch a first glimpse of the city's guests. Shortly after 10 o'clock Mr. Cleveland and his wife, accompanied by Mayor Francis and wife, appeared and were driven to the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church.

In the street at and near the church, many people had assembled, but a way was easily made through the crowd, and as the party passed to the door of the church, the spectators uncovered their heads, but made no other demonstration.

At the close of the service the president was escorted from the church immediately, the congregation remaining in their seats to allow easy egress. The party were driven to Mayor Francis' residence, where they dined, and at 3 o'clock they took a drive to Mr. Henry Shaw's famous botanical garden, returning early. The evening was passed quietly at the mayor's home.

There were bonfires, torch and Chinese lantern displays and brass band serenades at nearly all the stations between Indianapolis and St. Louis.

"Cleveland weather" prevailed this morning and the presidential party partook of an early breakfast in order to prepare for the day's festivities. Shortly after 9 o'clock Maj. C. C. Rainwater, chairman of the reception committee, escorted the members of the party from the Lindell hotel to the residence of Mayor Francis, where they were met by the mayor and cordially received.
Shortly after 10 o'clock the entire party in charge of Maj. Rainwater's committee were driven to the fair grounds in the northwestern portion of the city. The route the carriages took was elaborately decorated and much enthusiasm was manifested by the spectators, the president and Mrs. Cleveland acknowledging the demonstrations by bowing to the crowds on either side of the street.

The party reached the fair grounds at 10:45 a. m. and were driven around the race course, then stopping in front of the grand stand long enough to hear three thousand children sing "America." At the conclusion of the singing some very handsome flowers were presented to Mrs. Cleveland by the kindergarten children. These were graciously acknowledged by the lady.

The services at the fair grounds consumed but about twenty minutes. The amphithe-ter surrounding the course contained upwards of 40,000 persons. The scene was one long to be remembered. After driving all through the fair grounds the presidential party returned to Mayor Francis' residence, where the president and Mrs. Cleveland alighted, the latter retiring to prepare for a luncheon to be given in her honor by Mrs.
Henry Scanlan.

At a quarter before 12 o'clock the party started for the merchants' exchange, reaching there at 12:10 p. m.

The president was introduced by Mayor Francis in a brief speech of welcome, to which the president responded as follows:

"MR. MAYOR AND FELLOW CITIZENS—I am expected to make an extended speech on this occasion. I am afraid I shall disappoint you and this I should be sorry to do. After having succeeded at last through much tribulation in standing face to face with my St.
Louis friends. The tribulation of which I speak has arisen from the extreme kindness of a vast number of the American people, and the cordial invitations they have tendered me to stop and see them on my way to you. Your city was the objective point of my travel in this direction, but it has sometimes seemed to me that every town between Washington and here has been represented as being directly on my route and it has been hard to convince their enthusiastic citizens that it would not be entirely easy within the time at my disposal to pay them a visit. My own inclination leading me in the direction of their desires, it has been a difficult matter to resist their importunities, but I have made up my mind that the people of St. Louis are to blame for the entire perplexity and disappointment which this matter has caused, for it was through them that I was induced to leave home at all.

"I deem myself especially fortunate in being with you at a time when the manufactures and products of your city and the surrounding country are on exhibition. At your fair, one of the largest in the country, those who seek the best and surest evidence of your substantial prosperity may well be satisfied. Here, I shall see the things which are conclusive proofs of thrift and wealth and comfortable homes.
I hope to see, besides, while here, certain features of your city life, which just at this time are unusually displayed, and which establish the fact that the people of St.
Louis, with all their business engagements and with all their toil and stirring trade, are not averse to pleasure and enjoyment. I hope that you will find your visitors to be interested sightseers, and of one thing you may be assured, however much you may impress us with the greatness of your city, we are certain to have our hearts filled with a grateful appreciation of the kindness and hospitality of your people.

"I expect that anything I might say concerning your state or city in the way of laudation or congratulation, would hardly equal your own estimate of these subjects.
I believe was a time when St. Louis was a determined and jealous rival of Chicago. I don't know whether this condition continues or not; but I hope it does. While you can hardly expect lookers-on to take sides in such a contest, we are interested to the extent that such a struggle adds to the growth and improvement of the country at large.

Both of these cities, exemplify in a large degree, how completely and how speedily American energy and business integrity utilizes every available element of municipal growth, and how any useful type of the world's population is assimilated to the grand purpose of American expansion. I am here reminded of what I suppose to be the fact, that more than one-half of the voters are of foreign birth or parentage. The growth and increase of your city in every way, indicate, I think, that the condition of your population thus made apparent, is by no means to be deprecated, and my observation during a long residence in a city similarly situated, has led me to know the value to any community of the industrious, frugal and thrifty men and women who come from foreign lands to find new homes with us, who invest themselves with our citizenship and who are satisfied and content with the freedom of our government and our laws and institutions. The line is closely drawn between them and the non-assimilating emigrants who seek our shores solely for purposes involving disturbance and disad-vantage to our body politic.

"I hope I may without impropriety say this much in recognition of what has been done for St. Louis by its naturalized citizens, as well as in remembrance of many kind and valued friends and associates of former days."

DISASTER IN A MINE.

Five Men Crushed and Suffocated by a Fall of Coal.

READING, Pa., Oct. 4.—Ashland, Schuylkill county was the scene of a terrible accident Saturday afternoon by which five men were killed and quite a number were more or less seriously injured. Some twenty men were at work in one portion of the colliery when a huge pillar of coal supporting the roof gave way. There was a great crash, as thousands of tons came tumbling down.
The giving in of the roof of the colliery caused the compressed air to force the poisonous and deadly gas, which always lies along the roof, into the chamber where the men were working with the force of a hurricane. Men were lifted off their feet and sent flying right and left among the timbers and flying coal. The deadly gas did its work in a few seconds.

The alarm was immediately given, and when the advance guard of miners who were working in another gangway, and who fled at the first signs of danger, returned they found the outstretched forms of twenty miners in the chamber of death. All appeared as if dead, and they were carried out one by one and laid on the ground. Weeping women and children surrounded the bodies, and after several hours' work the officials succeeded in resuscitating fifteen, but five were dead. These are: Fred Isterick, fire boss, who leaves a wife and several small children; John Corcoran, a starter, who was the support of an aged mother; John McDonald, a loader, from Hornesville, unmarried; John Gillan, a driver, who was the only support of his mother; Patrick Tully, of Dark Corner, a door boy, who was the only support of a large family.

Of the fifteen saved a number are badly injured, several having arms and legs broken, but it is believed that all will recover. The force of the gas as it was sent through the gangway extinguished the miners' lamps. Had it not done this there would have been an explosion, and it is hardly possible that one of the 300 men in the colliery would have escaped alive. The damage to the colliery is considerable, as a large section of the roof was crushed in.

Terrific Boiler Explosion.

St. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 4.—A boiler explosion occurred in the engine room of the George P. Plant Milling company's flouring mill at Chouteau avenue and Main street in this city at 7:45, killing four persons. The following are the names: Henry Temme, the wheat buyer, George Coleman, coal passer, and Thomas Rivers, the fireman and his wife, who had just brought her husband's breakfast. Benjamin Myers, the engineer, was terribly bruised and scalded, but may recover. The bodies of some of the victims were blown from fifty to one hundred feet, and the wreck of the engine room was completely destroyed. The cause of the explosion is yet a mystery.

G. A. R. Sensation.

St. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—The Republican printed on Sunday morning a verbatim report of all the debates that occurred at the secret sessions of the G. A. R. encampment. As some of the speeches were bitter in tone, and as the entire discussion was decidedly juicy, it is likely that the report will create something of a sensation, not only among the G. A. R. people, who regarded the proceedings as absolutely safe from public knowledge, but to everybody in the country who is interested in the pension question.
The report makes more than eleven columns.

The Base Ball Race.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—The Cincinnati now have a "clinch" on second place. Up to date the record stands: Cincinnati won 50 and lost 52; Louisville won 73 and lost 56. If the Cincinnati should lose all of the five games they have yet to play, and the Louisville should win all of theirs, the record would stand Cincinnati 80, and 36 lost, Louisville 77 won and 56 lost, giving the Reds second place by a good percentage.

Roulette Players' Ingenuity.

A large sum was won years ago by a small company of players in the following manner: An ingenious mechanic having come to the conclusion that it was impossible to maintain a cylinder in such perfect working order that it should not tend a little to one side or another, and thus favor certain numbers more than others, haunted the rooms for months, and was rewarded by finding that his conclusions were right, and that certain numbers, at certain tables, appeared in the registers he kept with undue frequency. These numbers the members of his company set to work to back, and with such success that they had won very largely indeed before the proprietors discovered their secret. It is said that after a quarrel among themselves, one of the party gave information as to their mode of procedure; but, be this as it may, the cylinder of every roulette board is now removed and tested after each day's play, and no more money is to be made in this manner described.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION AT THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

What the Law Says About the Government Purchasing Bonds—Puzzles for New York and Washington Financiers to Solve—Other Washington Items.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The prerogative policy of the treasury in regard to the further purchase of bonds continues to attract a good deal of attention here. Whether or not the department has authority to purchase bonds at a premium outside of the sinking funds is a question not yet decided.
The secretary of the treasury is authorized and required by law to purchase every year government bonds amounting in value to 1 per cent. of the outstanding debt. That is the sinking fund.

It is for this that the bonds recently purchased have been bought. The law directing him to make these purchases is mandatory. It says "shall." So if the secretary cannot buy bonds at par he must buy them at whatever prices he can get them, for the law says he "shall purchase, etc." The other law, however, which authorizes him to purchase bonds in his discretion outside the sinking fund is differently worded.

It simply says "he may." And it says nothing about premium. Whether the makers of that law contemplated the payment of a premium for such purchase as it authorizes is not known. As the law simply says "he may purchase bonds," there are some people who believe that it does not intend he should purchase them at a premium, and as it is not mandatory the secretary hesitates about paying 25 per cent. premium for the sake of buying bonds under that authorization. That is the question now to be settled as to the future policy of the treasury department. If it is to get its surplus out into circulation the simplest way seems to be to get this authority of the law and purchase more bonds. The interest on the four per cent. bonds up to the time they fall due, twenty years hence, would amount to twenty cents on every dollar. If he can get them now for twenty-five cents premium on every dollar he saves the payment, of course, of fifty-five cents on each dollar so redeemed.
Provided he has authority. That is the authority that is puzzling the secretary and the financiers of New York and Washington generally. Here is the act of March 3, 1881, under which the secretary must act in case he decides to buy bonds with the surplus:

"The secretary of the treasury may at any time apply the surplus fund in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, or so much thereof as he may consider proper, to the purchase or redemption of United States bonds. Provided, bonds so purchased or redeemed shall constitute no part of the sinking fund, but shall be canceled."

The treasury department has several times purchased bonds from the surplus in the treasury aside from the sinking fund purchase. In none of these cases, however, have the bonds been bought at a premium.
There have been cases in which certain sums were charged up on the treasury books "premium," but that premium was not a premium on the bonds. It was a premium on the gold with which the bonds were paid.
All bonds are payable in gold or its equivalent, and at the time when these particular bonds were purchased the gold was at a premium. So that the several sums charged up in the treasury books as premiums were not a premium on bonds, but upon the gold with which they were purchased. Secretary Fairchild is still at sea upon this one question of his authority to purchase bonds at a premium. He would have no doubt whatever as to his authority to buy them at par. Nor would he doubt his authority to buy them at a premium for a sinking fund, as is shown by his action in the past fortnight. But whether he has authority to buy them purely as investment from the surplus in the treasury outside the sinking funds at a premium, he has not yet decided.
Indeed he does not propose to decide that question for himself. He says frankly that he is uncertain about it, and that he thinks the best solution of the problem would be to ask the department of justice, the law authority of the government, to decide that question. So it is probable that in case he sees a necessity for further purchase of bonds before the meeting of congress, either to relieve the treasury of its surplus or the country of a money stringency, he will ask the department of justice to decide that point, and upon its decision will rest the question of further purchase of bonds this year.

It is not at all certain that the treasury department will find it necessary to make further purchases of bonds before the meeting of congress. The slowness with which bonds have come in for redemption under the sinking fund scheme of late indicates that there is no particular demand for money. It also suggests to the secretary that there is no particular occasion for haste in any further attempts to purchase bonds so long as he can get all he is offered to buy under the present scheme. Should another flurry come, however, such as that a fortnight ago, it is likely he will call upon the department of justice to tell him whether he has authority under the law to buy bonds at a premium outside the sinking fund. Should the department decide against him, he still has another recourse. The law authorizes the payment of six months' interest in advance in the case the secretary of the treasury deems it advisable, so if he is not able to purchase bonds in order to get the money out of the treasury, he may as a last resort pay six months' interest before due. The annual interest charged on the outstanding debt now is about $45,000,000.
So if he should as a last resort decide to prepay six months' interest, he could put afloat about $22,000,000 in that way on very short notice.

No Sympathy for Anarchists.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 4.—The police broke up a meeting Sunday, called to express sympathy with the Chicago Anarchists.
Several persons were clubbed senseless.
Col. Hinton and other speakers were ordered to leave town. The meeting had been prohibited by the town council, on complaint that incendiary speeches would be made.

CABLE CAR ACCIDENTS.

Several People Injured by a Run-Away Car in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—Two cable car accidents occurred Sunday evening; one at Sixth and Walnut, at 6:45, and the other at Fifth and Sycamore, seven minutes later.
The travel was very heavy, and the car ran close together. At the Northern depot, car 64 could not be stopped, a strand of the cable having twisted about the grip. The car was crowded with passengers, most of whom jumped off. Just in front of the Galt house, on Sixth and Main, the runaway caught up with car No. 93, pushed it around the curve on Walnut street, and crushed into a train of two cars, the rear car of which was derailed. The grip on the run-away broke close to the car bottom, but the flying piece of the grip caught car 93, just ahead, and pushed it forward. This in turn pushed car 64. The two cars went flying down Walnut street, and just missed running into a Clark street horse car at Fifth and Walnut.

The runaway cars rushed around the corner at Fifth and Walnut and half way down custom house square ran into another car, smashing it. At Fifth and Sycamore the new Mt. Auburn road crosses, and excavations several feet deep have been made for the cable. Cable car No. 87 and an Eden park car were on the street between Main and Sycamore. The cars were filled with women and children. The driver of the Eden park car saw his danger and tried to pass the excavation, but just as it was reached the runaway cable cars struck the Eden park car. The horses were thrown into the excavation on one side and the car was dumped on the other side. Many of the passengers were bruised and one of the horses was killed. The greatest excitement prevailed. Women shrieked and children cried. Lewis Kolb, proprietor of the cigar stand at the Emory hotel, was taken to his home badly injured; the ankle of Mrs.
Brookheimer, of Greenup street, Covington, was dislocated. Several women were carried into Keeshan's drug store at Sixth and Walnut, but were more frightened than hurt.
The police patrol wagons were all on hand. The loss to the company will amount to several hundred dollars.

A Small Boy Stops the Cable Cars.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—A small boy stopped the Vine street cable Sunday. He was playing near the driving station, Coryville, and to see how the blamed thing would act threw a block of wood into the machinery.
The block of wood was ground into splinters, a cable was thrown from the drum and two cog wheels were smashed. The boy disappeared. Several car loads of passengers at different points along the route swore for two hours and then walked home.
The cable will be repaired in two or three days.

CAMP SHERIDAN.

The First Day of the International Camp at Chicago—Program.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—The following was the the proceedings of the first day of the International camp: At 11 o'clock Governor Beveridge and Gen. Bently proceeded in carriages to the hotel where Scandinavian officers are quartered and escorted them to the headquarters of the division of Missouri to pay their respects to Gen. A. H. Terry, commanding. Thence the foreign officers were driven to camp to prepare their troops for the ceremonies of "Name Day."

About 11:30 Gen. Beveridge proceeded to the United States steamship Michigan and escorted Commander Pickens U. S. N., and his officers to camp, the marines and sailors of his crew following in the cars. Meantime the forenoon in camp was busily filled by preparation among the companies and bands for the opening ceremonial of the baptism of camp at 2 o'clock sharp. At that hour the entire military forces, foreign, United States army and navy, National guards and the various bands and drum corps were drawn up in line, near the great flagstaff in the drill grounds.

The honor guard of the flag were thrown into a hollow square about the flagstaff.
The first general order of Col. N. M. Black, commander, was read by Col. Charles King, chief of staff, announcing the taking of command and the name of Camp Sheridan.

Immediately, amid the blare of many bands, the flag was run up, the National salute was fired from the light batteries, while the bands played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Quickly following, Governor Beveridge, president of the Drill association, introduced His Honor Mayor Roache, who delivered the address of welcome, greeting the foreign, regular and National guard troops, and opening formally the international camp.

Then followed the First Brigade Battalion and company exhibition drills by the cavalry, artillery and infantry filling the time until 5 o'clock p. m.

Then was held the first dress parade by brigades, with announcements in orders of the complete staff and of the regulations governing the camp. Following came inspection and review and the monster military bands were in attendance.

A Gun Cane's Deadly Work.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—Theodore Bicker, aged thirty, living in the First ward of Hamilton, O., was accidentally shot and seriously wounded yesterday afternoon.
While out walking he met two men who were examining a gun cane. Just as Bicker reached the spot the gun was discharged.
The contents struck Bicker in the abdomen, seriously injuring him. Dr. Malloy was called to wait upon him and pronounced the wound fatal.

The First Limited Express.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—The first limited express on the Queen & Crescent route started out Sunday morning. The new schedule allows but twenty-five and one-half hours for the run from Cincinnati through to New Orleans. Between Cincinnati and Chattanooga the Cincinnati Southern track is in beautiful shape, and the run of three hundred and thirty-six miles in less than ten hours was easily made.

Badly Injured.

OXFORD, O., Oct. 4.—John Garner, colored, while loading logs upon a car at the depot, was seriously injured Saturday. A team of horses used to load the logs became frightened at a passing train and started to run away, dragging Garner between two heavy logs, which crushed him.

TUESDAY EVENING, OCT., 4, 1887.

THE Democracy of Louisville defeated the Republicans last August by over 2,000 majority, and if they are not victorious in the coming city election it will be their own fault.

EVEN the Grand Army of the Republic has indirectly endorsed the President's veto of that Dependent Pension bill. The wisdom and sincerity of Cleveland's action never has been doubted.

THE annual value of pensions in this country on the 30th of last June, as shown by the report of the Commissioner, amounted to $52,824,641.22. This sum was distributed among 407,007 pensioners.

OUR Democratic friends across the river ought to go to work in earnest for their nominees. They have a splendid ticket, State and county, and they ought to remember they have a hard fight before them.

THE Board of Education at Zanesville, O., has been sued for damages because it refused to admit negro children to the white schools. We have always been told that "race prejudice" existed only in the South.

THE Republicans want to abolish the tax on whiskey and tobacco. This would not be treating the Collectors, Store-keepers and Gaugers right. Why didn't the Republicans talk that way when they were in power?

IT is a matter of encouragement and congratulation to the party throughout the country that the Democrats of New York are united and harmonious. The party in that State is in splendid condition for the coming fray.

THE last Legislature of Ohio—and it was Republican—is responsible for the present "mixed" condition of the schools in that State. And the Republicans over there are very apt to hear from the bill in the approaching election.

THE Republican hirelings of the Cincinnati Enquirer, the New York Sun, the New York World and a few other papers ought to let up on their miserable and spiteful flings at the President. Their work is all in vain if they expect to injure Cleveland in the estimation of the people.

LOUISVILLE is not apt to try the exposition business any ways soon again. The one that has been running for the past month was a magnificent failure. The doors have been closed and are likely to stay closed. It was a miserable show, and one that was not calculated to do the city any good.

GOVERNOR BUCKNER has departed from the course heretofore pursued in disposing of appeals for executive clemency. Petitions for pardons, we understand, are to be referred to the Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney of the court inflicting the penalty. It remains to be seen how the plan will work. One thing is evident, these two latter officials are always fully acquainted with the facts in the case, and are in a position to give the Governor all the information needed.

HON. A. P. BUTTERFIELD, whom the Democrats of Cincinnati recently nominated as one of their candidates for Representative, is a cousin of Mrs. John C. Lovel of this city. The Enquirer says: "His popularity was attested two years ago, when, as a candidate for Representative, he ran 2,000 votes ahead of his ticket, and defeated Colonel Bob Harlan, in whose interest he was unequaled by the partisan jury of a Republican House, by some 1,600 votes. He is a prominent Knight of Pythias."

"Most encouraging advices reach us from the country of the growth of the Democratic cause," says the Cincinnati Enquirer, in alluding to the Ohio campaign. "The people seem, at last, to understand the iniquity of the Republican scheme to tax them to death. The course of the Republican party in continuing war taxes for twenty years has outraged all intelligent people, and Governor Foraker's plan of increasing the taxation upon farm lands has done likewise. The owners of the soil are beginning to understand how, under Republican rule, they have been made to bear the burden of both Federal and State taxation."

An Offensive Breath
is most distressing, not only to the person afflicted by it, but to those with whom he comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not only friends but lovers. Bad breath and catarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases, as thousands can testify.

Praises From a Republican.
After seeing Mr. Cleveland at Philadelphia, the editor of the Republican Inquirer, of that city, has this to say: "The portraits of him with which the people were familiar, whether drawn by pen or pencil, did not denote him truly. There are fine, noble lines of intellectuality and feeling in his face which the portraits have not given; he has characteristics of the head and heart which have not been shown by the portraits. After seeing this mentally strong, bright man, it is folly to talk of his having achieved his present high position by mere accident, chance or luck. He achieved it by the possession and use of remarkable abilities, and his thought, speech, manner and appearance all go to prove it. His popularity in Philadelphia to-day is a thousand times greater than it was a week ago. His praises are in the mouths of those of wisest censure, of those opposed to him politically, whose respect and confidence he won during his brief visit here by the fine dignity and courtesy of his manner, his strong, fibrous intelligence, his evident sincerity of purpose and patriotic spirit."

Pensioners in Mason and Adjoining Counties.
According to the last report of the Commissioner of Pensions, the following is the number of pensioners in Mason and adjoining counties, together with the amount paid for the quarter ending June 3, 1887:
Mason, 123.....$3,282 75
Lewis, 185.....4,782 75
Nicholas, 57.....1,841 00 Fleming, 117.....3,273 00
Robertson, 7.....555 50
Bracken, 54.....1,648 00
The report shows that the total number of pensioners in this State at that time was 10,452, and there was paid out to these for the last quarter the sum of $313,089.50.

Stock and Crops.
A large acreage of wheat will be sown in Owen County this fall.

The great secret in sowing wheat is in getting ready to sow. Heavy seeding on a thoroughly prepared seed bed is waste and folly.

The story going the rounds that Adams County's tobacco crop will not amount to 5,000 pounds is the veriest nonsense. It will amount to millions of pounds.—West Union Defender.

A. S. Robertson, of near Harrodsburg, raised 1,400 bushels of Irish potatoes on twenty-five acres of land, for which he is getting $1 per bushel. He also raised 5,000 heads of cabbage on two acres, which he is selling at 10 cents per head.

At Paris, Charlton Alexander, of the Northern Bank, has sold to Moses Kahn for Goldsmith brothers 350 fat cattle for shipment to London, England, weighing 1,600 pounds, at 4, 4½ and 5 cents per pound, aggregating $40,000. This is the largest cattle sale in the Blue Grass this year.

Commissioner of Agriculture Coleman says the reports continue favorable in regard to the success of the sorghum sugar industry, both at Fort and Rio Grande, the sugar improving in quality and quantity as the work continues, and that there seems to be no doubt that a success has been achieved by the new process. He says letters are pouring in from all parts of the country asking for full information in regard to cost of machinery, etc., and there is every prospect of a great sorghum boom another year, which will revolutionize the sugar industry and emancipate our nation from foreign nations for sugar supply in a few years.

Fashion's Fancies.
The blue fox will be a popular fur trimming for wraps this winter. The fur is literally a beautiful blue, and comes at $3 an inch, a yard wide, measured on the skin side.

The daintiest fans shown this season are called "Screen." They are bolting cloth, exquisitely hand-painted and set in gold, with richly carved handles.

The "Donkey Turban" is the latest novelty in hats. It is made of two shades of velvet. The high trimmings on the front simulate the donkey ears. It is wonderfully cute, and takes with the girls.

Broad ribbon strings and the velvet bride and bow are "neck and neck" for honors this fall. Matrons will probably patronize the ribbon for tying on the pretty novelties, while the girls will affect the "bride."

The richest and most expensive fans imported this season are the finest kid, hand-painted. One hundred dollars is the very reasonable price at which they are offered.

Chestnuts, coffee-beans and beans, such as the Bostonians cook with their berran, in solid gold and the color of the berry, are to be fashionable this season for cuffs, buttons for men. The Boston beans are enameled with a dull finish, to imitate nature.

Especially to Women.
"Sweet is revenge especially to women," said the gifted, but naughty, Lord Byron. Surely he was in bad humor when he wrote such words. But there are complaints that only women suffer, that are carrying numbers of them down to early graves. There is hope for those who suffer, no matter how sorely, or severely, in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Safe in its action it is a blessing, especially to women and to men, too, for when women suffer, the household is askew.

THE TORNADO'S SHOCK.
Construction of a Dwelling That Will Stand It—A "Refuge Chamber."
A building intended to meet the tornado shock should, it seems to me, be constructed in the following manner: Where possible, it should possess thick masonry walls of stone or brick united by strong mortar. Masonry seems to be the most preferable material, for the reason that the storm, owing to its rapid forward movement, acts on any one place having the area of a house, for only a second or two; thus the merits of the mass will serve to protect it from the ravages of the brief storm. If there are partition walls within the house, these partitions should be tied firmly to the outer walls by suitable bolts. There should be large windows in the cellars and in the house itself, which may be blown out with ease, and so afford egress to the expanding air. Roofs should be firmly tied to the outer and inner walls, and the attic space should be provided with windows which would similarly permit the egress of the air. The building should be of as little height as possible. There should be no external parts of the edifice which are not well secured to the main mass. Timber fences and other frail structures, which are easily torn to pieces by the storm, may supply debris with which the wind, by whirling about, may inflict damage. Such a house would be likely to survive the action of almost all the observed tornadoes.

It would be well, however, for the occupants of even the best constructed houses in districts much afflicted by tornadoes to have a refuge chamber constructed a little below the surface of the ground, immediately adjacent to the southwest side, and readily accessible from the interior as well as from the exterior of the dwelling, to which they may resort upon the approach of the danger. An underground chamber, eight feet square and six feet high covered by three or four feet of earth, provided with one or two entrances of no more than sufficient size, without doors, would afford an absolutely safe refuge in the worst of these catastrophes.

In the case of barns the part devoted to sheltering stock should be placed partly underground, and the portion above the surface should be banked up with earth as high as may be. The floor which parts the level of the stabling from the upper portion should be strongly secured to the lower walls. In this way the upper portion of the building may be abandoned to the chance of accident, while the part containing the beasts may be secure.—Scribner's Magazine.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Quotations of the Money, Stock, Produce and Cattle Markets for Oct. 3.

New York—Money 6½ per cent. Exchange steady. Governments steady.
Currency notes, 123 bid; four coupons, 124; four-and-a-halfs, 103½ bid.
The stock market opened 1¼ to 1½ per cent. lower on selling by London houses but the weakness was not of long duration and after the first fifteen minutes there was some good buying of western union on reports that it had secured control of the Baltimore; under its lead prices resumed ½ to 1¼ per cent. by the first close. This was followed by a 12 o'clock rally; by a pressure to sell on the part of the bears and by 11:30 the recovery had not only been wiped out but prices were slightly lower than at the opening. The market has since been dull and featureless and the lowest prices are now current.

Elder of this district for the past two or three years, was assigned to Wesley Chapel, Louisville.

Interesting Relics Unearthed.

While working on the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad a short distance below Springfield the other day, a force of hands brought to light the skeleton of an Indian. The Portsmouth Blade says:

"The skull was intact until removed from the earth, when the lower jaw broke away. The most remarkable feature of the head was a bunch of hair on the front portion of the skull. This hair was about five inches long, black as a crow's wing and stiff as bristles. That it should be preserved intact through all the years the skeleton has been buried is indeed a strange circumstance. So firm was it in its place, and so strong was the hair itself, that it was used as a handhold by which to carry the skull up town when it was brought across the river.

Alongside the skeleton was found a beautiful chased silver cross, and a shield-shaped plate of silver about six inches long, four inches wide and a sixteenth of an inch thick. Around this plate was a handsomely carved wreath. At the top was a Maltese cross, and just below the cross a crown artistically engraved on the face of the plate. At either end of the plate were three holes, evidently drilled there for the purpose of attaching it to another object. There were also several pairs of scissors, a number of knives, and twenty or thirty buckles found about the skeleton.

"The fact that the Indians left this section of country ninety-eight years ago demonstrates that the body, of which this skeleton was a part, was buried at least a hundred years ago. There is circumstantial evidence upon which to base the opinion that it has lain there at least a century and a half. The plate and cross are evidently a portion of the head gear of a Jesuit priest, and the history of the Jesuits, as preserved in France, shows that they were here two hundred years ago. How much longer they remained or how long these relics were preserved by the Indians after they left, must also remain an unanswered question; but as an Indian's treasures were buried with his bones, it is not evident that a great many years elapsed from the time the Indian acquired these things from the Jesuits until they were interred with him."

Trouble at Augusta Over the Depot.

Maysville is not the only place where the location of the depot for the new railroad has caused trouble. A special from Augusta says there is great excitement there over the location of the passenger depot, and the feeling promises to become more bitter if the matter is not promptly decided. The contention is between the citizens of the extreme eastern and western ends of the city. A meeting of the stockholders of the Augusta Rink was called for last night to consider the advisability of selling that building for a depot. It is near the western terminus of Third street, through which the road runs. The body of the road in Bracken County is now ready for the ties and rails.

Work Resumed at the Gas Well.

The contractors resumed work at the natural gas well in the East End yesterday, and it will not be long now before the drill will be running once more. The first work to be done is to recase the well. The directors gained their point, and the work is to be done as they have all along demanded. They think the prospects for striking gas are as good now as ever.

Coal For Sale.

My son, W. B. Phister, has 8,000 bushels of coal under roof, which I will sell at 10 cents, (which is less than it has cost him), city weight to measure the same, and will give to the 1st of January to sell it out of the house. If not sold wholesale by to-morrow night, I will then sell it at 12 cents by retail at the coal house, or 14 cents delivered.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

DELEGATES GATHERING TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Sessions Will Probably be Held With Open Doors, as the Present One Will Only be a Legislative Meeting—The Public Opening Ceremonies—Notes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 4.—Of the fifty or sixty members of the Knights of Labor already here to attend the general assembly, which opens here Tuesday morning, none are willing to admit that the wholesale rumors of impending trouble have any foundation in fact. The prospect that the cases of the Anarchists will be sprung upon the body has been very generally canvassed, and there is a very decided opinion that the question should be ruled out of order at the start. A modified resolution suggesting clemency may possibly receive the support of the assembly, but even that much is doubtful. The report of the general co-operative board will be an important and valuable document.

The appropriation of $4,000 that was voted to this body by the Richmond convention has been left untouched, and the year has been occupied in gathering facts and opinions relative to the co-operative enterprises which are now being conducted by the Knights of Labor in different parts of the country. Among these are newspapers, banks, tobacco, hatting, carriage and furniture manufacturing establishments and co-operative works.

A canvass of some forty delegates yesterday indicated a unanimous sentiment of opening the convention to the press on the ground that the present session would be purely a legislative one, and that nothing was likely to transpire which it would be desirable to keep secret.

Delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor have been arriving on every train since midnight, and fully 200 are now on the scene. A party of eleven, with a good supply of Anti-Powderly timber came in early this morning. It comprised John Buchanan, Robert Nelson and Charles Selb, of Chicago; Joseph Labadie, of Detroit; John Morrison and George Murray, New York; H. J. Cananagh, Cincinnati; Andrew Beat and James G. Graham, Brooklyn, and Joseph McGinn, of Philadelphia.

Morrison, Buchanan and Nelson were moving around the headquarters of the delegates before the breakfast hour, and were informed from many sources that the conservative element had no apprehensions that the anti in the convention would be either very pretentious or very dangerous. Buchanan was informed that the protest filed against him had not yet been considered by the committee on credentials.

Ex-Congressman Weller, of Iowa, better known as "Calamity" Weller, was one of the early risers, and greeted the arriving members of the general executive board long before many of the delegates were out of bed. It has been decided that the work of the assembly shall be pushed through with all possible dispatch, and the opinion is entertained by some of the officers that the program can be completed by Saturday, or the following Monday. It is expected that Buchanan will have considerable difficulty in securing a seat upon the floor. Nearly every local assembly in Colorado has, so it is understood, filed a protest against his credentials.

Other cases which will give the committee considerable trouble are those of John Morrison, of the expelled carpet weavers' district 124, of New York, and Hugh McGarvey, of National District 156. In each case when the decision is against the delegate the question will be appealed to the general assembly and fought out upon its merits. John Morrison, who is leading the carpet weavers' fight, has no credentials. His only resort will be to induce some delegate to bring the case before the assembly. Should the majority of the delegates be in favor of allowing the expelled district to come back, it will do so, but should they refuse, the case will be lost for another year. So far as can be indicated by a partial canvass of the delegates the action of the executive board in the matter will be sustained.

The public opening ceremonies at the Washington rink this morning were shorn of considerable of their attractions by the absence of Governor McGill, Grand Master Workman Powderly, Secretary Litchman and "Tom" O'Reilly, of New York, the sweet singer of the order, the latter three having missed connections in Chicago. Very handsome indeed was the appearance that the rink presented in its gala attire. Streamers of red, white and blue intertwined with evergreens and flowers, were suspended in artistic profusion from the rafters and walls. A floral counterpart of the globe sphere and triangle, which from the insignia of the order occupied a conspicuous position in the rear of the platform, and pictures of the devotees of the cause of labor and hundreds of mottoes made by the ladies of this city combined to make the gigantic building appear like a kaleidoscope vision from fairyland. The audience was large, and there was prolonged applause when John P. M. Ganghey appeared on the platform that had been erected in the center of the structure. Behind him came Mayor A. A. Ames, with Robert Griffiths, of Chicago; A. A. Carlton, of Massachusetts; T. Barry, of Michigan; Frederick Turner, of Philadelphia; W. H. Bailey, Richard Trollick, Ralph Beaumont and other noted leaders of the convention.

In the absence of the governor, Mayor Ames welcomed the delegates to Minneapolis. He said of the many great questions which were before the people, none was more important than that which was justice between capital and labor. In his experience the workmen had never claimed anything that could not be characterized as a matter of justice, pure and simple. Minneapolis had been the first city in the west to come to the front on the eight-hour question, and this was because its legislative body which was placed in power by the laboring element knew and understood its needs.

The mayor closed by tendering the delegates the freedom of the city, and Richard Griffiths, grand working foreman of the order, who is in poor health, responded to the welcome in a very few words.

A. A. Carlton, of Massachusetts, in behalf of the general executive board, spoke more at length. In the course of his remarks he said: "Earnest, yes, desperate attempts are being made to prove that our organization is dwindling away, that it is disintegrating, that our forces are in a condition of demoralization. It is not true. [Applause.] It will never become so. Our great army will never turn its back to the foe so long as it knows that the lives of our women and our children are ground up into the fabrics we are wearing to-day. [Prolonged cheers.] So long as there are thousands starving and thousands more dying in poverty, while the few are living, not only in convenience and comfort, but in luxury, so, as long as the toilers of our manufacturing, our workshop and our mines are making the wealth flow into the hands of one class, the owners of cities and towns, the lands and the houses while the ninety and nine have empty hands, so long will the Knights of Labor continue in existence."
